

The Project Leadership Retreat

A transformational leadership programme that impacts your authentic self, the team spirit and the project success.

Bergen, The Netherlands
2019 dates TBC

Introduction

You're an experienced project manager with a solid track record. Project management techniques are familiar to you, but you know they are insufficient to help you overcome the challenges you face on your project.

These challenges can be about yourself, your team or your stakeholders and clients. From experience you know that your people skills and personal barriers sometimes hold you back.

You are ready to take your leadership skills and project performance to the next level - be more centred in your role, create a high performing team and have a bigger impact on your clients and stakeholders. Imagine how that would feel and what the effect would be.

Working together with two of the co-founders of The Project Leadership Institute, this intensive five-day event offers the opportunity to move outside of your comfort zone, reflect, connect and transform.

Together, we create a challenging and supportive environment and take a deep dive into your personal and professional leadership journey. We make use of story telling, NLP, experiential learning, reflective exercises, theory and peer learning.

As a result you gain a clear understanding of what your vision is for the future and a roadmap for overcoming the most challenging leadership situations on your project.

The Project Leadership Retreat is a unique opportunity for project managers who are ready to take a quantum leap in their leadership development

Use your full potential as a project leader

Programme Overview

Start-up Package

The Project Leadership Retreat starts with a personal profiling tool, a 360° feedback report, a Skype interview and preparatory assignments. Included is access to our online learning platform, where you will meet your fellow participants. This Package will kick-start your leadership development journey.

Personal Deep Dive - DAY 1

On day one of The Project Leadership Retreat we invite you to look in the mirror. Using a personality-profiling tool, you will gain awareness of what your core beliefs and behaviours are. You will also come to understand how the events of your life have shaped you as a leader. As a result of this first day you will connect with the essence of who you truly are and begin see your leadership in a new light.

Challenging Leadership Situations – DAY 2

We will tune into a different and more outgoing energy on day two as we practice challenging situations. This could be setting boundaries, dealing with demanding clients, handling conflict, gaining buy-in from stakeholders and effective delegation skills. You will learn from on-the-spot feedback and observing others. We provide a safe environment that allows you to open up and try approaches outside of your comfort zone.

High Performing Teams – DAY 3 & 4

You will experience first hand how to create a high performing team. Building trust and effectively manage team conflicts is also a major theme. You will get to practice different leadership styles such as coaching. We examine the human needs and communication patterns that drive performance. You will also become more comfortable dealing with dysfunctional behaviour. Best of all, we relate the topics back to your own team and help you implement the learnings.

Putting Your Vision into Action - DAY 5

To leverage the impact of the Project Leadership Retreat you will engage in a powerful visualisation exercise. The personal vision and goal map provides guidance and stepping-stones for your future leadership. You will create a action plan for yourself and your project that you fully commit to. To enhance the impact, you will pair up with a fellow participant who can help you reflect and stay accountable after the retreat.

Commitment Package

The journey doesn't stop after day 5. We will provide you with a Commitment Package that includes personal assignments, checklists, a buddy system and a follow-up webinar. Making full use of the Package will help you to keep the momentum after the retreat and capitalise on your investment.

Impact and Takeaways

The Project Leadership Retreat has impact on three levels:

Yourself

We help you overcome your leadership challenges by working with behavioural patterns and underlying beliefs. This increased self-awareness makes you connect with your authentic self. As a result you will be more effective in leading projects.

Your project team

Your personal transformation will reflect on your team members and the interactions you have with them. You will experiment with different leadership styles and learn how to build a high performing team.

Your environment

As you begin to lead by example, you will create a ripple effect within your organisation. In addition, your clients and stakeholders will benefit from your expanded leadership skills.

Takeaways - Personal Leadership:

- Use your full potential as a project manager
- Understand how your life has shaped your leadership style
- Overcome your most challenging project situations
- Reach your goals using new approaches rather than default behaviours
- Feel more confident as a leader
- Be more calm under pressure and handle stressful project situations
- Be more decisive when needed
- Connect with the essence of who you truly are
- Articulate your personal vision and mission

Takeaways - Team & Stakeholder Leadership:

- Develop more balanced and mutually beneficial relationships with clients and stakeholders
- Handle conflict in groups constructively
- Create high-performance in your team
- Delegate more effectively
- Be more sensitive to signals from your project environment
